1. The Soviet garrison at Pila (Schneidemuehl) was appreciably strengthened during the last months of 1952. The military camp directly north of the town is completely filled.
2. At the village of Dobryca (Borkendorf - P54/S 05), about ten kilometers north of Pila, storehouses of considerable proportions containing weapons (including artillery pieces) and repair workshops of various kinds with modern equipment have been constructed. All the buildings are well concealed in the woods and some of the warehouses are buried.
3. The strongly publicized scrap collection campaign has failed. The principal cause is said to be the fear of being accused of economic sabotage if an old machine or other metal article is condemned and sold as scrap. In many factories, therefore, there are considerable stocks of scrap, which no one dares turn over to the scrap collection.
